

A person went to an interview. The interviewer ordered a drink for the person. The office staff came in to the room and placed the drink in front of him. For the first question, the interviewer asked, "What is in front of you?". He answered correctly and got the job. What was his answer?